

OVERCOME WORRY

Worry is when we focus on potential negative outcomes of things that are completely out of our control. It can lead to physiologically stresses on the body, which can lead to illnesses if left unchecked. Worry can paralyze us by causing us to dwell on situations and circumstances that are unrealistic. It can also keep us from fulfilling God's best for us. The Bible addresses the topic of worry and how it can rob us of our peace.

In the video, Overcome Worry, Kelly Morris, a faith-based counselor, addresses the issue of worry that many people struggle with throughout life. She provides solutions and sound biblical truths to overcome and be free from your worries.

Dive Deeper

According to Kelly Morris, everyone has worries that range from minor uncertainties like whether the garage door is closed or getting to work on time. However, it is the debilitating worries that are most concerning—the worries that weigh someone down.

What are some examples of everyday minor worries in your life?

What are some examples of unrealistic worries that weigh on you frequently?

Additional Thoughts:

The world is inundated with a large variety of media sources that constantly portray the worst news possible. How do you feel after watching reports focused on politics and world events?

Kelly states worry that is weighty is often based on things outside of your control. How can worry become a sense of powerlessness and helplessness in your life?

What do you do with the stress brought on by such anguish?

Ways to Overcome Anger

1. Take every thought captive.

Paul writes in Second Corinthians, “We destroy arguments and every lofty opinion raised against the knowledge of God, and take every thought captive to obey Christ” (2 Cor 10:5 ESV).

What worries do you struggle with that oppose the knowledge of God (the truth of God’s Word)?

What does it look like to take your thoughts and feelings of worry captive to obey Christ?

What other verses can you find in the Bible that address worry?

Additional Thoughts:

2. Thoughts and feelings aren't always based on facts.

While thoughts and feelings are often not based on facts, they can act as good guides to help determine what is or is not working in your life, what is safe or unsafe, or, even, what can or cannot be changed in your life.

What are the things that are out of your control in your life?

What are the things that you do have control over in your life?

What thoughts and feelings do you worry about that, with a shift in perspective, could bring about actions with better outcomes?

How do you want to re-frame your perspective about worry to lessen its power in your life?

3. Be curious and ask God where your negative thoughts or feelings are coming from.

What are some thoughts and feelings you can identify in relation to your present-day worries?

How can you best take action to address the issue?

4. Give it to God when you identify worrisome thoughts and feelings.

Read Genesis 3:1-9. Kelly makes the distinction of asking Adam where he is emotional and mentally, as opposed to physically.

When God asks you where you are in your mind, in your heart, or in your actions, what is your honest answer?

Take some time now in prayer by asking God to take your burdens from you. Write your prayer here (optional).

Additional Thoughts:

Kelly stated the following ways to overcome worry:

1. Take every thought captive.
2. Thoughts and feelings aren't always based on facts.
3. Be curious and ask God where your negative thoughts or feelings are coming from.
4. Give it to God when you identify worrisome thoughts and feelings.
5. Make an action plan to move forward with the gifts and calling you feel God has placed in you.

Additional Thoughts:

Live It Out

- Shut down the media you're listening to and focus on actions you do have control over.
- Sleep, exercise, have connection with others, find support, and go to church.
- Share with God your concerns and ask Him "Where am I in my thoughts and feelings?"
- Ask God to reveal your giftings and how to use them.
